OXFORD'S GREEN SPACES

Offering leafy sanctuaries from the bustling city, Oxford's green spaces are open to the public all year round. Take some tranquil time out from your city break in these historic parks.

PORT MEADOW

One of Oxford's hidden gems, Port Meadow is a beautiful open area of ancient meadowland, north-west of the city centre and just a 5-minute walk from Jericho, offering a tranquil retreat for visitors and locals alike. Home to grazing horses and a herd of pedigree Old English Longhorn cattle, Port Meadow lies alongside the River Thames and has provided inspiration for Lewis

Carroll's Alice in Wonderland and JRR Tolkien's Lord of the Rings.

CHRIST CHURCH MEADOW

Ideal for short scenic walks and picnics, Christ Church Meadow stretches from Christ Church to the banks of the River Thames and River Cherwell. The meadow itself is an open expanse of rugged greenery, peppered with rare English Longhorn cows. Walk around the meadow to take in a variety of wildlife, watch the rowing boats passing by on the river, or see the college bathouses.

SOUTH PARK

In East Oxford, at the end of St Clement's, you'll find South Park. The largest park in the city, with 50 acres of open green space, South Park often plays host to events and festivals throughout the year. It's the perfect park for dog walks, sun-bathing, and meeting with friends before lunch at one of the many excellent restaurants on Cowley Road or St Clement's.

South Park also boasts excellent views over the spires of Oxford, especially in the mesmerising light of dawn or dusk.

UNIVERSITY PARKS

University Parks offers the perfect escape from the hustle and bustle of the city but is also conveniently located right at the city's heart. The beautiful park, originally created by Merton College and now owned by the University of Oxford itself, offers a choice of peaceful walks. Feed ducks at the pond and discover the park's Genetic Garden and collection of rare trees before wandering back towards the city centre along the bank of the River Cherwell.

OXFORD BOTANIC GARDEN

The University of Oxford Botanic Garden is the UK's oldest botanic garden, founded in 1621 to grow plants for medicinal research. Situated in the heart of Oxford, the historic garden is an oasis of green in the city centre. Take a stroll around the formal walled garden; see exotic, tropical and carnivorous plants in the glasshouses, and enjoy the lush herbaceous borders of the informal lower garden.

OXFORDSHIRE AN INTRODUCTION

Walk across the ancient chalk downs of the Ridgeway and climb to the top of White Horse Hill for enchanting views over the whole of Oxfordshire, with its rolling hills dotted with sheep, criss-crossed with hedges and circled by red kites, continuing endlessly into the horizon. Simply relax and take a break as you admire the scenery, but don't stop for too long – for there is so much to see and do on your journey across the county.

Standing in the ancient and unspoilt countryside of the Chiltern Hills stretching across the south of Oxfordshire, it feels like you might be the first traveller to discover this land. Venture north through the county, however, and you'll discover thousands of years of culture.

Meandering across the county, the River Cherwell and River Thames provide beautiful riverside walks. Follow the River Thames north to shop in a farmers' market in one of Oxfordshire's traditional market towns, such as Wallingford or Abingdon.

The two rivers converge in Oxford, an architectural gem and the county (and world's) intellectual heart. Piercing Oxfordshire's skylines with its spires and domes, the lively city provides an energetic contrast to the tranquillity of Oxfordshire's countryside.

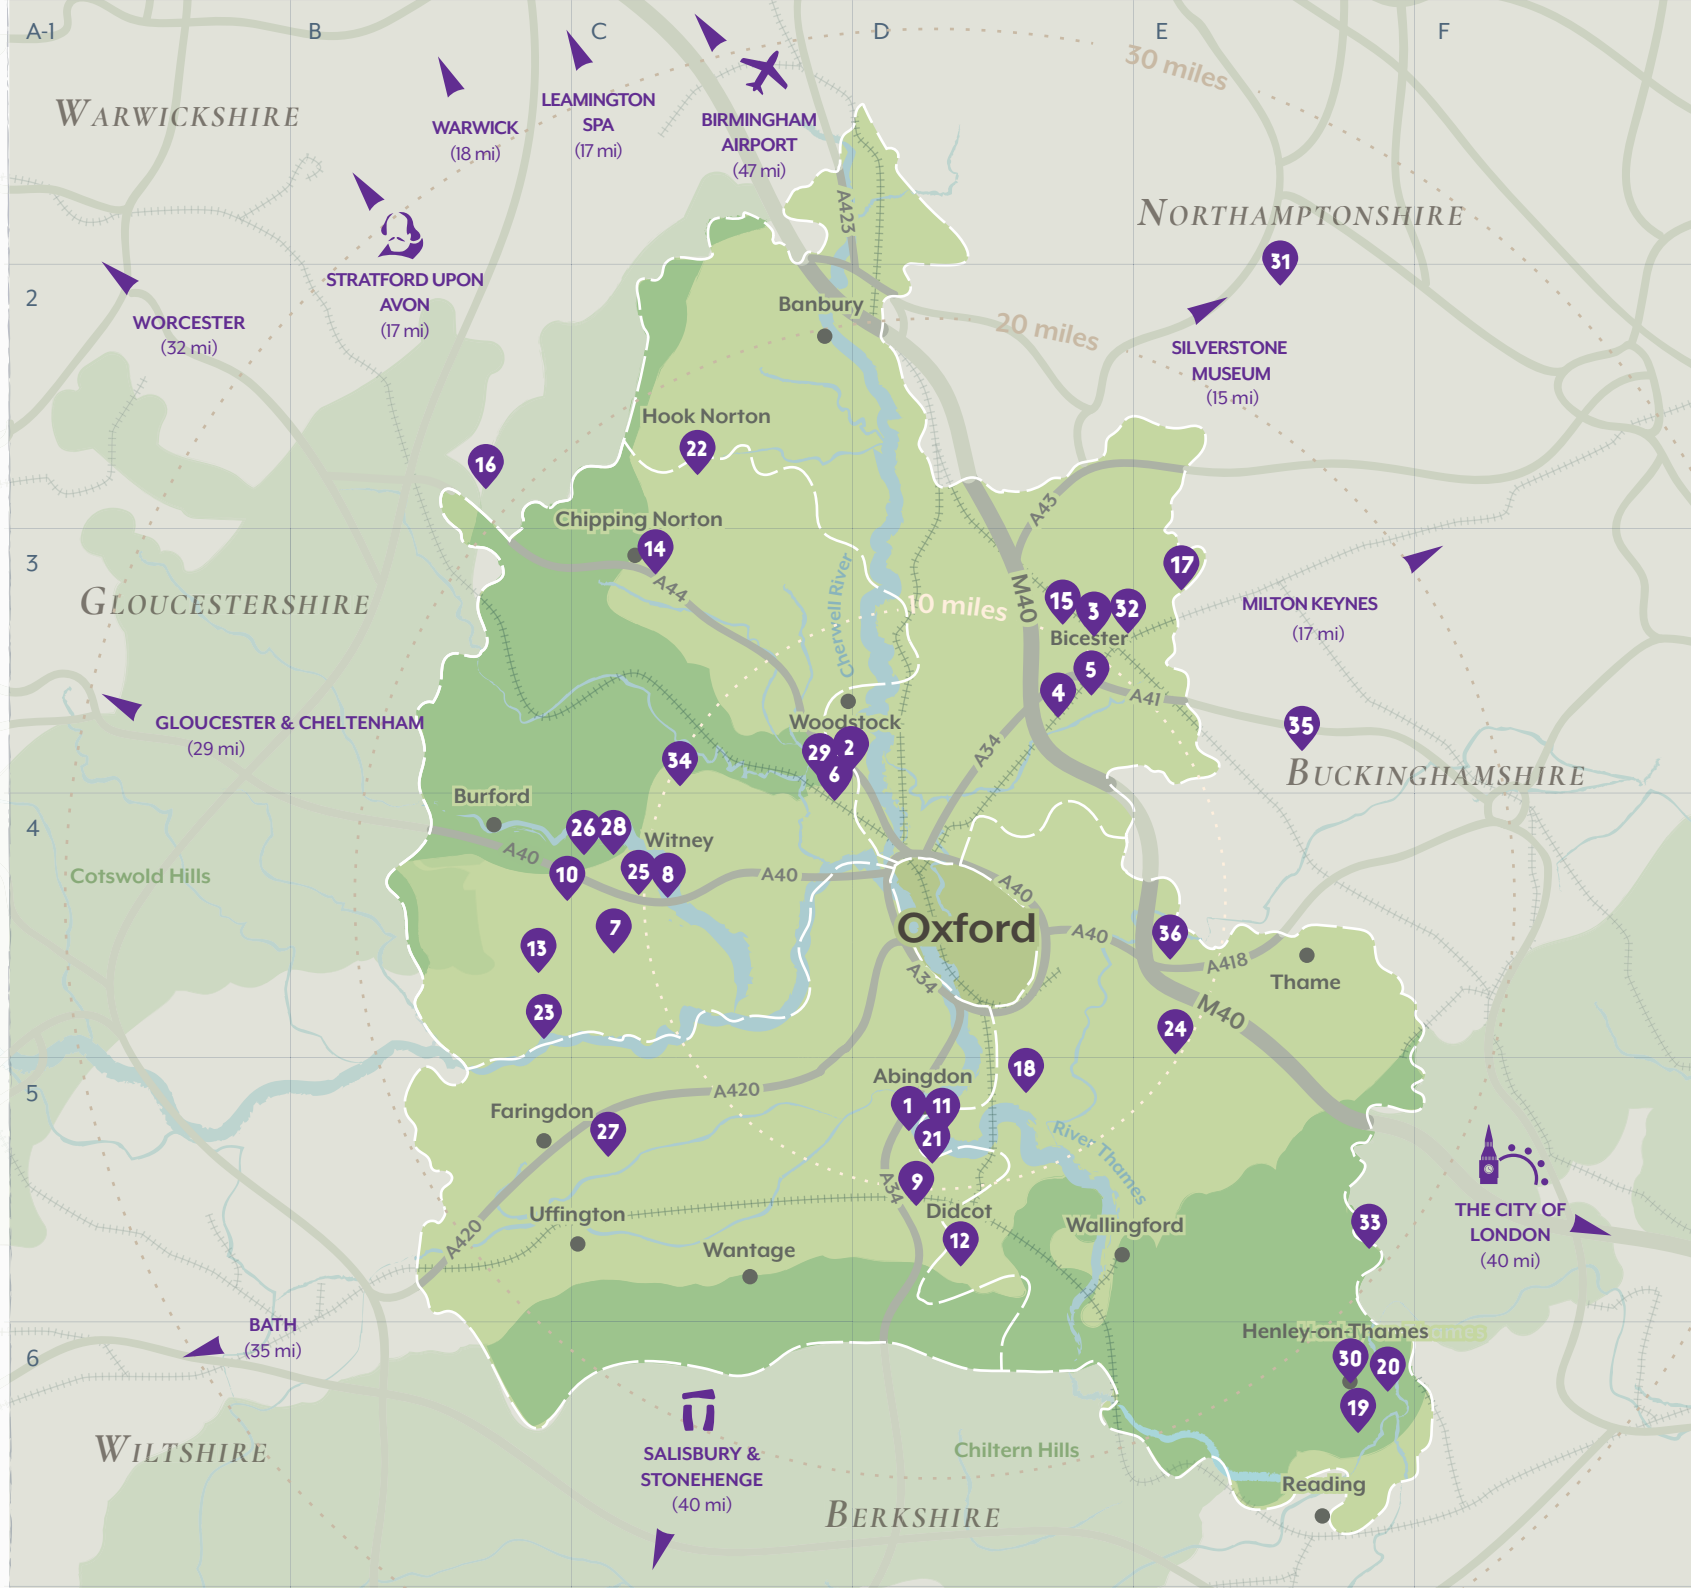

Let the River Cherwell guide you further north through the county, towards the uplands known as 'ironstone country', with pretty villages built of the richly coloured local Hornton ironstone, the market towns of Banbury and Bicester, plus welcoming pubs and blissfully quiet walking trails.

Head west in the county and you will find that some of the most beautiful Cotswold towns and villages, such as Burford and Minster Lovell, are in Oxfordshire. Relax with an afternoon tea in a charming, honey-coloured Cotswold building.

With a wealth of natural beauty, Oxfordshire is an unmissable county bursting with character. Take some time to explore beyond the city of Oxford, because there is so much more to discover.

CHERWELL

THE IMPRESSIVE NORTH

North Oxfordshire offers rich rewards for its visitors. Centred in the valley of the River Cherwell, with the Oxford Canal alongside, there are landscapes of beautiful countryside with picturesque villages and the market towns of Banbury and Bicester to explore.

Banbury is set amidst the gentle rolling hills in the north of the district. At its heart is the canal side quarter where you will find The Light, an exciting entertainment venue with a premium seven screen cinema, 10 lane bowling alley and waterfront restaurants. This popular area is also home to the historic Tooley's Boatyard; Banbury Museum; and Lock 29 with artisan food and drink outlets and a delightful terrace overlooking the canal. The atmospheric lanes of the Old Town are well worth exploring and you will also want to see the "Fine Lady" from the famous Ride a cock horse to Banbury Cross rhyme, a beautiful bronze statue set close to the Banbury Cross at the meeting point of the roads from Oxford, Warwick and Shipston-on-Stour.

Bicester lies just 12 miles northeast of Oxford and marries the charm of a historic market town with the appeal of the world-famous luxury shopping destination, Bicester Village. Trains from London Marylebone take just under an hour and as well as shopping in the Village, you can visit the delightful Garth Park gardens and relax over a meal at one of the town's welcoming pubs or restaurants.

The uplands northwest of Banbury are known as 'ironstone country', with pretty villages built of the richly coloured local Horton ironstone, welcoming pubs, and interesting walking and cycling routes. Well worth a visit is the moated manor house of Broughton Castle, built in the 14th century and used as a film setting for both Shakespeare in Love and The Madness of King George.

There is a rich brewing heritage to discover in the village of Hook Norton, near Chipping Norton, where you can enjoy a tour of the Victorian Hook Norton Brewery which is still thriving today and supplying many local pubs.

Built in the late 18th century to carry commercial barges between Coventry and Oxford, the Oxford canal follows the scenic course of the River Cherwell. You can explore the canal by hiring narrow boats at either Lower Heyford or Thrupp, or enjoy one of the towpath or circular walks. The stretch of the canal between Banbury and Oxford is also accessible by train, with stations at Banbury, Lower Heyford, Tackley and Oxford.

The district has a strong tradition of festivals and events, ranging from Banbury's Canal Festival and the motor-themed events at Bicester Heritage (also home to Sky Wave Gin and Finest Hour Experiences) to Cropredy's Fairport Convention music festival which is held in August each year. A central location with excellent transport links, North Oxfordshire is not only a rewarding destination, but also an ideal touring centre. A wide range of overnight accommodation provides ease of access to many world-famous destinations, including Silverstone Circuit, Blenheim Palace, Oxford, Warwick Castle, Stratford-upon-Avon, and the Cotswolds.

Waterperry Gardens, just a stone's throw from Oxford, has been delighting visitors for years with 8 acres of historic and inspirational gardens nestled in the Oxfordshire countryside between Wheatley and Thame.

Nearby Le Manoir aux Quat'Saisons is a country house hotel set in elegant gardens in the Oxfordshire countryside. A site of gastronomic excellence, the restaurant, helmed by Chef Raymond Blanc OBE, has held two Michelin stars for almost 40 years.

You can also visit the town of Didcot and stop at Didcot Railway Centre to see a unique collection of Great Western Railway steam engines.

VALE OF WHITE HORSE ANCIENT BEAUTY

The Vale of White Horse stretches from the edge of Oxford to the threshold of the Cotswolds. Its enchanting landscape is marked by a mysterious pagan past - the very name comes from the oldest chalk figure in Britain, dating back over 3,000 years.

Abingdon-on-Thames is the largest town in the Vale, its historic town centre dominated by the grandeur of the 17th century County Hall. It presides over the cobbled Market Place, a favourite café haunt for walkers and cyclists taking a break from the Thames Path and other routes in the surrounding countryside.

Nearby is the contemporary Hilton Garden Inn Abingdon Oxford Hotel and The Crown & Thistle coaching inn plus the ancient Abbey Buildings which host the Abingdon Traditional Craft Fair every November.

Wantage is an ancient market town and birthplace of King Alfred the Great. Visit the award-winning Vale & Downland Museum which tells the story of the White Horse Grove, on the outskirts of Wantage, has grown from a settlement recorded in the Doomsday Book.

Faringdon has been welcoming visitors for many centuries. Take a break in one of the quirky coffee shops, or climb to the top of the hill above Faringdon to see the gothic Folly Tower and views across four counties. Nearby grab a drink, eat or stay at Mollie's Motel & Diner Oxfordshire.

Pick up vegetables from the farm's reception and have fun feeding the friendly farm animals! In the evening head to Little Sandy's, a live music venue serving cocktails, wines, spirits and beers until late.

Woodstock is a picturesque Georgian town located on the edge of the Oxfordshire Cotswolds, containing many attractive honey stone buildings and home to the Oxfordshire Museum. The Bear Hotel makes a great base from which to explore the county, within reach of Oxford, Charlbury and Chipping Norton and nearby Fairytale Farm. Visit Wake Up to Woodstock website to find out about events, accommodation, shopping, restaurants and more.

The town borders the estate of magnificent Blenheim Palace, home to the 12th Duke of Marlborough and the birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill. A masterpiece of Baroque architecture with 90 acres of award-winning Formal Gardens and Parkland landscaped by Capability Brown, Blenheim Palace provides an awe-inspiring experience for visitors.

Further south in the district explore Bampton, otherwise known as the TV village of Downton, and Kelmscott Manor the country home of William Morris. In nearby Clunfield The Double Red Duke offers the perfect bolthole.

Great Hall. See if you can spot the area where Harry spent time recovering in the Hogwarts Infirmary when you visit the Divinity School, or the location where Draco Malfoy was turned into a ferret by Mad-Eye Moody under the giant oak tree in New College.

DOWNTON ABBEY

The Oxfordshire Cotswolds and its picturesque villages frequently appeared in the popular TV drama. Bampton plays the part of the Yorkshire village of Downton in every series, and Cogges Manor Farm may also be better known as Yew Tree Farm.

HIS DARK MATERIALS

Author Philip Pullman has been inspired by Oxford, having studied at Exeter College during the 1960s, and still lives in the city today. Exeter College may be better known to readers as Jordan College. Godstow Abbey, the Trout Inn and Oxford Botanic Garden also feature in Pullman's literary works. Step into the world of the BBC/HBO adaptation by visiting Oxford Botanic Garden, The Bridge of Sighs and New College.

AGATHA CHRISTIE

Dame Agatha Christie is loved worldwide for her compelling crime novels and famous sleuths; including Hercule Poirot and Miss Marple. Wallingford is the home of Christie, and the inspiration for much of her work. Visit Wallingford Museum, for a permanent Christie exhibition, and nearby a life size bronze statue showing the Queen of Crime seated on a bench overlooking the Kine Croft.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

Charles Dodgson, better known as Lewis Carroll, wrote his famous tales of Alice in Wonderland in Oxford, the city where Carroll lived and studied for nearly fifty years. The dining hall of Christ Church houses treasures associated with the whimsical tales; see if you can spot the stained-glass window where Alice, the Cheshire Cat and other characters feature, and the wooden chair with the Cheshire Cat's wide smile carved into it. When leaving Christ Church onto St Aldates, you will find Alice's Shop, where the real Alice bought sweets as a young girl. A landmark for Alice enthusiasts, Alice's Shop featured as The Old Sheep Shop in Alice Through the Looking Glass and was even illustrated by Tenniel in the first edition of the book.

MIDSOMER MURDERS

Follow in the footsteps of Inspector Barnaby of Causton CID and the characters of the hugely popular detective series. Discover the various filming locations - particularly Wallingford, which served as the drama's fictional town of Causton Thame, at the foot of the Chiltern Hills, also frequently features.

INSPECTOR MORSE, LEWIS AND ENDEAVOUR

The city of Oxford is the setting for the books and TV series of Inspector Morse and Lewis, and most recently Endeavour. Enjoy a drink at The Morse Bar or the White Horse pub where the detectives spent time deliberating over cases. Amble along the River Thames where many bodies were hidden, sit on the steps of the Ashmolean Museum, the location of many scenes, or visit Exeter College where Morse had his fatal heart attack.

THE CHRONICLES OF NARNIA

C.S. Lewis studied at University College and was later appointed English Fellow and Tutor at Magdalen College. It was here that he wrote the beloved children's series, the Chronicles of Narnia. Visit St Mary's Passage and see if you can spot the carved fawn in one of the door frames, the inspiration for Mr Tumnus. Keep an eye out around the city for lampposts made by Lucy & Co!

LORD OF THE RINGS

Walk in the footsteps of legendary Lord of the Rings author J.R.R. Tolkien in Oxford. Relax with a drink in the Eastgate Brasserie, as Tolkien did with friend and fellow member of the Inklings writing group C.S. Lewis. Wander among the greenery of Oxford Botanic Garden, where Tolkien used to spend time, or visit Exeter College, where Tolkien studied for his undergraduate degree. Immerse yourself in culture at the History of Science Museum - Tolkien worked on words near the beginning of the letter W for the First Edition of the Oxford English Dictionary in the same building - or at the Ashmolean Museum, which houses a collection of gold rings thought to be the inspiration for The One Ring.

ADVICE FROM THE LOCALS

There is so much to see and do in Oxfordshire, it's tricky knowing where to start! We asked local Oxfordshire people to pick out their favourite places to go, from essential first-time-visit spots to hidden gems.

VEGAN SPOTS IN THE CITY

“At first glance, it might seem like Oxford doesn't have many options for vegetarians and vegans. On closer inspection, though, you'll find that it's easy to eat plant-based in the city!

I'd recommend heading to Jericho, where you'll find The Gardeners Arms Oxford's only 100% vegetarian and vegan pub.”

- NICOLA FROM OXFORD

BROWSE A BOOKSHOP

“I could spend an eternity at Blackwell's Bookshop on Broad Street. Their collection of books is huge, you could while away an entire afternoon browsing the miles of shelves in the shop”.

- MICHAEL FROM BICESTER

GET YOUR BEARINGS

“When I moved to Oxford a few years ago I went on an Oxford Official Walking Tour which gave me a very good introduction to the history of the city and university.

Each time my friends visit Oxford and we have a stroll through the city they say there is something magical about it that makes you want to come back!”

- JACK FROM KIDLINGTON

EXPLORE BANBURY

“Banbury is a little market town in the north of Oxfordshire. It's home to the 16th century Ye Olde Reindeer Inn, used by Oliver Cromwell as a base during the Civil War, and the 18th century Tooley's Boatyard, where you can take a guided tour of the narrow boat workshop beside the canal. Banbury is ideal as a base to travel to Warwickshire and Stratford-Upon-Avon, and nearby Broughton Castle, so I would recommend it to anyone visiting Oxfordshire!”

- JOSHUA FROM BANBURY

ALL ABOUT THE VIEWS

“I never get bored of the view over Oxford's skyline - the dreaming spires always spark my imagination. The best places to take in the view are from Westgate

Oxford shopping centre's roof terrace, the rooftop restaurant at the Ashmolean, or The Varsity Club bar in the Covered Market.”

- SHIRLEY FROM WITNEY

HIDDEN GEM BY THE THAMES

“I am a big fan of the Abingdon Museum in the famous County Hall built in 1682. You can look down from the museum galleries and watch the crowds of people in the market square below. There's always something going on in Abingdon's Market Square too!”

A CITY BUILT ON THE WATER

OXFORD'S RIVERS AND CANALS

GREAT FOR

NATURE

FAMILIES

ADVENTURERS

No visit to Oxford is complete without exploring the city's waterways - the mighty River Thames which flows through to London, the River Cherwell and the historic Oxford Canal, over 200 years old.

The waterways offer an opportunity to explore the hidden side of the city, take part in exciting activities and to see the city from a different perspective.

EXPLORE THE OXFORD CANAL

A short walk from the city centre takes you to the start of the Oxford Canal. Dug by hand over 200 years ago, it runs for 77 miles. It was an important trade route, with the unique narrow boats originally pulled by horses carrying goods to London and the rest of the country.

Now it is an oasis of peace and quiet. Take a walk along the towpath you will see wildlife, passing boats and can learn about the canal's history as you follow the Oxford Canal Heritage Trail.

You can even hire a narrowboat for a day trip or longer and really explore with College Cruisers.

EXPLORE THE RIVER THAMES

Just a short walk from the city is the famous Head of the River public house and Folly Bridge over the Thames, which marks the finish line for university rowing races. Walk along the towpath and you will often see the Oxford University rowing crews practicing and may be lucky enough to watch a race.

Visiting Christ Church Meadow is a must-do, with its circular path taking you alongside both the Thames and the River Cherwell.

Nothing can beat a walk around Port Meadow, an ancient area of grazing with incredible open views across the Thames, wildlife and cosy local pubs.

The Thames Path National Trail also comes through Oxford on its 183-mile route from the source of the Thames all the way to London. Oxford is an excellent base to explore it in sections.

THINGS TO DO - MESSING ABOUT ON THE RIVER

Enjoy a different view of Oxford by getting onto the water.

You must try punting - the unique flat-bottomed boats you push along with a pole (take champagne and strawberries for a picnic!) There are several places you can hire one on both the River Thames and River Cherwell including Cherwell Boathouse.

If you have time to explore further, take a boat trip. Salter's Steamers offer regular passenger ferries along the Thames, stopping at several points and continuing on to Abingdon-on-Thames. You can take the boat back, or jump off along the way and enjoy a walk back to the city along the Thames Path, or you can even take your bicycles. Salter's also rent out small motor-boats you can sail yourself.

Providing a range of luxury boat trips, including an evening cocktail cruise, Oxford River Cruises explores the Thames. Jump aboard at The Folly restaurant.

PLACES TO EAT AND DRINK

There are many fantastic places alongside Oxford's waterways for a drink, a quick lunch or a full three-course and more dinner.

Visit our website for a full list of waterside cafés, pubs and restaurants.

OXFORD'S WATERWAYS LOOP WALK

Following the historic canal from the centre, a short 2-mile walking route takes you along the canal and then across to Port Meadow, with its open skies and views, then back to the city alongside the River Thames.

For a longer and more complete experience, the 7-mile route continues to the village of Wolvercote, with its local shop and cosy pubs. Back along the Thames Path National Trail, with views right across Port Meadow, and into the city again. Go out for a pub lunch and enjoy a walk back.

ONLY IN OXFORDSHIRE QUIRKY TRADITIONS

CULTURE

Oxfordshire is home to an array of quirky traditions that make the county unique.

MERTON COLLEGE TIME CEREMONY

Once a year, on the night the clocks go back, students of Merton College partake in the tradition of the Merton College Time Ceremony. Created by undergraduates in 1971, the ceremony involves students dressing in full academic dress whilst walking backwards around the Fellows' Quad with a glass of port in their hand, from 02:00BST for an hour until 02:00GMT, to allegedly maintain the space-time continuum.

POOH STICKS

The World Pooh Sticks Championships takes place at Sandford Lock on the Thames in May (date to be confirmed). Taking inspiration from the beloved children's book, Winnie the Pooh, anybody can take part to become the Pooh Sticks world champion. You just need to pick your stick and drop it upstream on one side of a bridge and whoever's stick appears on the other side of the bridge is the winner!

MAY MORNING

One of Oxford's well-loved traditions, held every year on the 1st of May, sees citywide celebrations for the coming of Spring, bringing the community together for what is known as May Morning. Morris Men dance across the city, and the choristers of Magdalen College choir sing the day in from the Great Tower at 6am with Hymnus Eucharisticus, attracting flocks of people to Magdalen Bridge before celebrations continue throughout the morning.

BUN THROWING

Bun Throwing in Abingdon is a famous tradition in Oxfordshire dating back 400 years. Local dignitaries throw currant buns from Abingdon County Hall Museum on days of celebration; attracting huge crowds all hoping to catch a bun!

THE CORPUS CHRISTI TORTOISE FAIR

Corpus Christi's Tortoise Fair is one of the lovelier eccentricities at Oxford and has at its heart the Tortoise Race, in which tortoises from various colleges race to get to the edge of a ring of lettuce. It's thought to have been started in the 1920s. Corpus' own tortoises are named Oldham and Foxe - whose care is presided over by a "Custos Testudinum" or "Tortoise Keeper", elected at the start of each year.

A UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD YEAR

CULTURE

HISTORY

HIDDEN GEMS

With ornate buildings, pristine quads and grand dining halls, stepping into a University of Oxford college is like stepping into another world. The students of the University come and go from their colleges every day, but these annual University occasions give you a sneak peek into student life.

In the Autumn, around mid-October, Oxford students make their way to The Sheldonian Theatre in their academic robes, or “Sub Fusc”, for ‘Matriculation’; the official ceremony welcoming new students to the University, which is performed solely in Latin.

As the summer months draw near, you’ll see the students nervously walking toward the Examination Schools, again in their Sub Fusc robes, for their exams in June.

Also in June, glimpse the University of Oxford’s most prestigious annual ceremony, Encaenia, when the University awards honorary degrees to distinguished men and women. Some participants, including the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, take part in a procession through Radcliffe Square and the Divinity School to the Sheldonian Theatre, where the ceremony takes place.

To celebrate the end of the University year, colleges throw extravagant balls for their students. In the summer evening breeze, see students’ ball gowns and tails fluttering as they arrive at their college balls.

In mid-summer and towards early autumn, catch the students throwing their mortarboards in the air as they celebrate their graduation!

THE OXFORD CANAL

OXFORD TO BANBURY

Built in the late 18th century to carry commercial barges between Coventry and Oxford, the Oxford Canal is one of the country's most beautiful inland waterways to explore. This route along the towpath takes you through the picturesque scenery of the Cherwell Valley as the canal follows the gentle meandering course of the River Cherwell to Banbury.

OXFORD

Begin your walk along the Oxford Canal from the city centre, following the canal through Jericho to the north of the city to enjoy the open views of Port Meadow. Cross Port Meadow to enjoy a pint at The Perch, a historic thatched pub. At Upper Wolvercote, leave the canal towpath to explore the ruins of Godstow Abbey and visit The Trout Inn, a 17th century pub overlooking the River Thames and a favourite of Colin Dexter's Inspector Morse.

Read More | p.26 ▶

THRUPP

(11km from Oxford)

Continuing north past Kidlington, you might want to stop for refreshments at Thrupp - a pretty canal side village where rose-covered terraced houses line the towpath and there are two popular pubs, The Jolly Boatman and The Boat Inn, as well as a tea room. From here the canal follows the winding course of the Cherwell river, joining with it for occasional stretches.

TACKLEY

(7.5km from Thrupp)

Tucked away close to the canal, Tackley is a characterful rural village of stone buildings and a church of Saxon origin. Home to a couple of quaint bed and breakfasts and a well-stocked village shop with a café, the village makes a good base for exploring the local countryside.

ROUSHAM HOUSE

(7km from Tackley)

Further north up the canal, the towpath brings you past the grounds of Rousham House, a Jacobean country house with wonderful gardens which can be visited. The gardens were landscaped by William Kent in the early 18th century and represent the first phase of English landscape design. Many of the features created in the 18th century are still there today.

At Lower Heyford Wharf, Heyford railway station is directly beside the canal, with trains back to Tackley and Oxford or ahead to Banbury. The village of Lower Heyford marks approximately the halfway point between Oxford and Banbury and options for an overnight stay include a canal side bed and breakfast as well as Heyford House and The Holt Hotel. The village's pub, The Bell Inn, dates from the 17th century and there is also a café/bistro at Lower Heyford Wharf with gardens overlooking the canal.

Refreshed from a stop in Heyford, continue along the canal as it follows the winding course of the River Cherwell north to Aynho Wharf. This is one of the waterway's most appealing stretches as it turns into more open countryside and you will pass the picture-postcard lock-keeper's cottage at Somerton Deep Lock. Close to Aynho Wharf is the Great Western Arms, a traditional country pub serving the local Hook Norton ales.

From Aynho Wharf continue to Twyford Wharf and then the market town of Banbury where you will find The Light, an exciting entertainment centre with a premium seven screen cinema, 10 lane bowling alley and waterfront restaurants, and Lock 29, an appealing canal side venue with a range of artisan food and drink outlets. Make sure you take a guided tour of the historic Tooley's Boatyard which dates from 1788 and is the oldest dry dock working boatyard on the inland waterways.

There are inviting cafes and pubs in the Old Town, including the 16th century Ye Olde Reindeer Inn where the wood panelled Globe Room is believed to have been used by Oliver Cromwell as a base during the Civil War. Finally, don't leave Banbury without sampling Banbury cakes - delicious spiced and currant-filled pastries which have been made to a secret recipe for over four hundred years!

Return to Oxford in 20-30 minutes on Chiltern Railways direct service to the city.

THE RIDGEWAY NATIONAL TRAIL IN OXFORDSHIRE

WHITE HORSE HILL TO THAME

The Ridgeway Trail stretches 140 kilometres across scenic countryside from Avebury in Wiltshire to Ivinghoe Beacon in Buckinghamshire and through two Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty: the Chiltern Hills and the North Wessex Downs. This routeway is steeped in history, having been used by traders and invaders as far back as 5,000 years ago. Today it is enjoyed by walkers, cyclists and horse riders seeking far-reaching views, historic sites and wildlife.

White Horse Hill is only 29 kilometres from Oxford, and 20 kilometres away from Watlington. Follow our trail from White Horse Hill to Thame for a taste of how much there is to see and do in this area.

FARINGDON

Begin in Faringdon. The town is full of heritage, immediately noticeable in the quaint town centre where you will find old coaching inns, Georgian fronted buildings and the 17th century town hall. Now occupied by a diverse array of independent shops, cafes and restaurants, the town centre is a hive of activity. A five-minute walk from the town centre, you will find Faringdon's Folly Tower. Built in 1935 by Lord Berner, the 100ft high tower sits on a hill amongst a circular woodland, providing panoramic views over the town and beyond.

Explore The Ridgeway's history at White Horse Hill, where you will find the internationally renowned Bronze Age White Horse carved into the chalk hillside. This is the highest point in Oxfordshire with views across 6 different counties, and is hugely popular with dog walkers, picnickers and kite fliers alike. There is plenty of parking in the National Trust car park at White Horse Hill.

From White Horse Hill, walk or ride for 2.3 kilometres along The Ridgeway to the prehistoric long barrow of Wayland's Smithy. It is also worth venturing off the hills into nearby Uffington village where there are pubs, a small museum and a waymarked trail to learn more about the historic buildings in the village.

Base yourself in Wantage to discover the stories of King Alfred the Great who was born in the town in 849AD. This historic market town offers independent shops, places to eat and a theatre, as well as the Vale & Downland Museum which has won awards for being family friendly. Head west to villages such as Sparsholt for a nice lunch at The Star Inn or Kingston Lisle to see the Blowing Stone which King Alfred used to summon his army to battle against the Vikings.

Walk up to The Ridgeway to see Segsbury Camp hillfort, passing along the chalk stream called the Letcombe Brook and through the historic village of Letcombe Bassett where you may like to stop for lunch at The Greyhound Inn. There is also a great day's cycle ride from Wantage eastwards along a signed cycle route through the Lockinges and Ginges and Hendreds villages, then up to The Ridgeway to head westwards back to Wantage. There are some great pubs and historic buildings to look out for in the villages, including a village shop from a bygone age in East Hendred!

Goring and Streatley is where The Ridgeway meets the River Thames and another National Trail, the Thames Path. Linked by a bridge in 1837, Streatley and Goring are picturesque riverside villages with numerous places to eat, making this a perfect spot for a break.

From Goring, follow The Ridgeway to walk 8.5 kilometres along the river to the historic market town of Wallingford, with independent shops, places to eat and stay and a small museum. Families will enjoy Wallingford's riverside playground and campsite.

This area is known as the Chiltern Hills, famous for its parklands and beechwoods. The first stretch passes along Grim's Ditch, a ditch and bank boundary thought to date back to Saxon times. Watlington is where a huge hoard of Viking coins was famously found in 2016. Some of these coins displayed the head of King Alfred the Great and a replica display can be seen in Watlington's library.

Visit before June to see Frieda Toranzo Jaeger's new exhibition, join in with family activities or visit the current Shop and Café, or in October to explore their brand-new spaces.
